10 Cents Per Week — DIXON, ILLINOIS MONDAY, AUGUST 5, 1907 — Twenty-fourth Year, No. 183

ASSEMBLY CROWDS GREATER THAN EVER

GATE TENDERS' ESTIMATE OF SUNDAY'S ATTENDANCE IS 8,000 PEOPLE.

PROMISES TO BE BANNER YEAR

Wendling's Address a Masterpiece—Some of Strongest Talent Comes This Week.

The gate tenders at the Assembly grounds estimate Sunday's attendance was over 8,000 persons. At the south gate Sunday afternoon 737 persons were brought there by five cars.

The census of the grounds was taken Saturday and the result was as follows:

Tents, 125; cottages, 20. In the tents 402 persons reside. In the cottages there were 65 persons, and in the hotel on that day there were 105 persons. It is now reported that thus far this has been the banner year i npoint of attendance. The popularity of the Rock River Assembly grows greater each year.

The lecture by Hon. George R. Wendling, Saturday afternoon, was preceded by a grand concert by the Dixon Marine band. Manager Blancke, with appropriate words, introduced Mr. Wendling, who is no stranger to audiences at the Rock River Assembly.

The speaker's word picture of the appearance of Stonewall Jackson was marvellously full in detail and certainly equally accurate. "An American is the best product of modern civilization; he is a combination of the Cavalier and the Puritan of the seventeenth century. These had mutual and inherited antipathies which, thank God, are now bred out, and the product of the twentieth century American. I am a lifelong democrat, but when I have been called upon to vote for some of the tickets of that party in past years, I feel like taking off my hat with profound respect to the old moss-backed democrat who is still voting for Andrew Jackson."

Worked Way Around World.

The lecture Saturday afternoon by Henry M. Spickler, entitled, "Around the World Without a Cent," was a very pleasing recital of experiences, during a globe-trotting trip, on a bicycle. This young man left his Illinois home without a penny and went entirely around the earth, earning money here and there, enough to pay his expenses. He is a keen observer and never fails to see the humorous side of the various incidents. He also has the happy faculty of explaining clearly what he sees.

Old Times Dixie.

The lecture Saturday evening by Colonel H. W. Ham on "Old Times in Dixie" was a treat to all who heard it. It was a true picture of the home life of the typical southern planter and also of the slave. The whole was interspersed with laughable anecdotes that kept the audience in excellent humor throughout

Colonel Ham made a statement that he had never heard a negro ragtime nor had he ever heard a southern lady or gentleman speak of a negro as coon.

At the Assembly Sunday school yesterday, there was an attendance of 208 and the collection was $10.00 The teachers were Rev. Gardner Thrall, Miss Marie C. Brehm, Miss Birdena Doubt, Rev. W. H. Blancke and Rev. C. W. Maggart, the latter of Cedar Rapids, Ia.

The Hebrew Lawgiver.

Yesterday afternoon the program began with a sacred concert by the Doubt Family Concert company. There was a full house at 2:30, when Hon. George R. Wendling began his famous lecture on "The Hebrew Lawgiver." Like every great orator, he began in a moderate tone of voice, something that it is necessary to do in order to preserve the voice. This physiological necessity was probably unknown to the two or three in the audience who inopportunely shouted "louder." Orators of the first order know better how to modulate their voices than any of their unlearned listeners.

Babylon, the capital of the Chaldean empire, was at one time the greatest city the world has ever known. The surrounding wall was sixty-five miles in circuit and one hundred feet in thickness. The Euphrates river ran through the city, which was bridged and tunneled in different places. The great Temple of Baal and the Hanging Gardens were the most remarakble and surprising structures of this capital, the latter being accounted one of the Seven Wonders of the World.

Transferring the audience in thought from the Chaldean capital to the valley of the Nile, the listeners were shown the beauties of the sacred river, and the antiquities along its shores. The tombs of the rulers of ancient Egypt were then described—all the dead being mummies for more than three thousand years embalmed.

Historically considered, no name in history, no statesman, no warrior, no artist, no sovereign is to be compared in importance to the name of that youth who passed up and down the streets of Egypt's capital, almost in the shadow of the everlasting pyramids, as he who later became known as Moses, the Hebrew Lawgiver. Of him it is said, "He was learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians."

The cuneiform inscriptions prove that centuries before the time of Abraham, both Egypt and Babylon were filled with schools which controverts the statement sometimes made in the past by archaeologists that there was no pre-Mosaic literature. DeLietch, the famous German Orientalist, says that when we divide the zodiac into twelve signs, and the great circles of the earth into 360 degrees, each degree into sixty minutes and each minute into sixty seconds, we do exactly what the Chaldeans did centuries before the time of Moses.

The transitional period in the life of Moses was described, when he ceased to be a rich prince of Egypt and became the poor Hebrew, yet with God's promise of future leadership and a savior of the people. What he afterwards accomplished under Jehovah's direction and the making of a record of these constitute the most monumental service to mankind ever performed by any human being.

History is not made by blind forces. but by great men. Criticism does not love to believe in genius. Great men are the dominating force in history. History is carried forward not by philosophy, not by tendencies, not by the spirit of the age, but by men.

Evening a Disappointment.

Last evening there was a very large attendance at the Auditorium and the Doubt Family gave a delightful concert. The part of the program following this was a disappointment. The complimentary statements we made concerning this exhibition a few days ago were based on hearsay; this criticism is based on personal knowledge. The management placed Dr. Heagle's exhibition on their list of attractions because they were led to believe that it was first class. That it is now demonstrated to be entirely unworthy a place side by side with the other attractions of the season is a source of profound regret.

The illustrated song, "The Holy City," by Mrs. E. M. Goodsell of Dixon, was very delightfully rendered.

Assembly Notes.

Dr. William A. Colledge, head of the department of literature in the Armour institute of Technology of Chicago, began his series of instructive lectures on literature this morning at 10:30 a. m. The series will close on Saturday, the 10th.

Keeping Cool in Norway.

A card from George C. Loveland to a friend in this city states that he is at Trondhjem, a thriving city in Norway. He also states that he has just witnessed the reception of Kaiser Wilhelm. The kaiser is accompanied by nine battleships. He further states that the enormous glacial formations furnish cool places which are very comfortable during the warm season. Some of the ice formations are more than 1,000 feet in depth.

Corn Ten Feet Tall.

S. F. EDGE MAKING SEVENTY MILES AN HOUR AT WEYBRIDGE, ENGLAND.

The sensational performance of S. F. Edge on the Brooklands motor track at Weybridge, England, is the talk of the motor world. He rode at the fearful pace of about seventy miles an hour for twenty-four hours without stopping for sleep, rest or eating and drinking except as he could secure some nourishment while driving his machine.

STERLING COMPANY WON TROPHY

BROUGHT CUP HOME FROM THE STATE RIFLE RANGE AT SPRINGFIELD.

Sterling, Ill., Aug. 5.—The Company E rifle team of the Sixth Infantry Rifle association was successful in making the highest average in the contest for the silver loving cup trophy on the state rifle range Friday, and bore the cup home Saturday with great pride. The trophy is a fienly engraved solid silver loving cup, and is highly prized by the local militia. The team was made up of the following crack shots, who demonstrated their superiority over all competitors on the rifle range: Lieutenant D. B. Deyoe, captain of team; Captain John Cushman, Sergeant William Heathcote, Second Lieutenant Fred Burmeister and Fred Sneed. The local crack riflemen won the distinction with twenty-one points to the good. Company M of Galena won the cup last year and had the dope figured that they would repeat the trick this year, but were sorely defeated and took their defeat hard. The local team naturally feels a little proud of its work on the range, but are justified in so feeling. The team scored 405 out of a possible 500 points.

DAKOTA STORMS MISS DIXONITES' FARMS

Dixon owners of wheat land in the northwest seem to be especially fortunate from harm from hailstorms last week near Starkweather, N. D. A storm in that country did great damage but missed the farm of Attorney John Beemer about two miles. A subsequent storm passed near Petersburg, N.D., also doing great destruction, but missing the farm of Attorney A. C. Warner by a short distance.

HAMMER HITS HEAD OF CHILD

FATHER THROWS MISSILE AT A HORSE, STRIKING HIS LITTLE DAUGHTER.

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 5.—Ruth, the 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Alden of Seward, is at St. Anthony hospital in a very critical condition, resulting from an injury received Friday afternoon at the hands of her father, a hammer thrown by him striking the little girl on the head and inflicting a serious wound.

The father was at work about the house and threw the hammer to frighten a horse which had ventured into the yard. At the same instant the little girl stepped from behind some obstruction, which hid her from the view of her parent, and she was struck in the head by the flying missile.

The little one was rendered unconscious by the force of the blow. She was carried into the home by the distracted father and a doctor was summoned. The physician advised that the child be taken to a hospital and she was brought to St. Anthony's.

An operation was performed, cutting away a section of the skull, which pressed down on the brain, and also removing two square inches of bone to relieve the pressure.

The child is doing as well as could be expected, though its condition is serious and it will not be until some time later that the outcome of the operation can be determined.

ARE MOVING THE EAST RIVER SWITCHES

The Northwestern section men Saturday started the removal of the switch tracks on East River street, which have been delaying the construction of the permanent sidewalk there. It is thought the removal of the tracks will require at least a week, because there are so many switches to move and switch tracks to be changed. The specially manufactured switch for the spur to the water works has been lost somewhere on the line, but the railroad authorities have decided not to wait any longer for it. The work on the walk will probably be resumed week after next.

Miss Carrie Smith Sang at Service.

Miss Carrie Smith sang at the Presbyterian church Sunday morning. Her solo was "Sundown," by Parker, with violin obligato by Charles Lowery .

Stack Did Not Arrive.

The Grand Detour Plow works did not resume operations this morning as was expected. The new smoke stack did not arrive and it will be impossible for the shops to start until it does come. It is expected the stack will arrive this week.

Clyde Mossholder of Freeport spent Sunday with his family in Dixon.

BRING STERLING MILK TO FACTORY

BORDEN COMPANY IS BUILDING RECEIVING STATION IN STERLING.

WILL SHIP THE MILK TO DIXON

In the Meantime Work Is Being Rushed on the New Sterling Factory.

Sterling, Ill., Aug. 5.—The representative of the Borden Milk Condensing Co. announces that the company will begin the building of a temporary receiving station for milk early this week. The receiving station will be located on West Fourth street, near the end of the street car tracks and will be a good sized building. There will be a steam plant installed for the purpose of providing hot water and steam for cleansing the cans in which the farmers deliver their milk. It is stated authoritatively that the company will begin taking milk on the 12th of the present month and will pay the Dixon price for the same, less the freight over the interurban to that point. There will be a full equipment for handling a considerable quantity of milk put in at the temporary station, for it will be several months before the new factory west of the city will be available for handling the product of the dairies. The work on the new plant is being pushed as rapidly as possible.

LADIES INJURED IN A RUNAWAY

MRS. ROBT. ANDERSON AND MRS. CHAS. WINEBRENNER HAVE A MISHAP.

Mrs. Robert Anderson and Mrs. Charles Winebrenner were hurt in a runaway Saturday afternoon and the buggy in which they were riding was damaged slightly. The accident occurred while the ladies were driving near the Winebrenner house, corner of Crawford avenue and Fifth street, when the horse frightened at a dog and turned directly across the roadway, dashing into a tree. The ladies were thrown out by the collision and the shafts of the buggy were broken. Mrs. Winebrenner was cut in the face and received several severe bruises about the body. Mrs. Anderson's injuries consisted solely of bruises about the body.

NEW BUILDING LAWS MUST BE ENFORCED

LOCAL OFFICERS RECEIVE INSTRUCTIONS FROM STATE FACTORY INSPECTOR.

FOR THE PROTECTION OF LIFE

Has to Do With Scaffolding and the Floors of Buildings Under Construction.

Many Dixon property owners and builders will do well to get copies of the new state laws for the protection and safety of persons in and about the construction, repairing, alteration or removal of buildings, bridges and other structures. Chief of Police Woodyatt has received a copy of the law from Edgar T. Davies, chief of the state factory inspectors, and also a letter calling attention to other features, notable among which is that the local and state authorities are given concurrent jurisdiction in the enforcement of the law, except in cities where a local building commissioner has been provided by local ordinance, and in such cases the local building commissioner will enforce the law.

Under the provisions it is up to the local officers to watch things and when they see anything wrong or supposedly wrong to send for one of the state deputies, who will be here and take the matter up.

The law provides that all scaffolds shall be constructed so that they shall be safe for those on and under them, and in such a manner that nothing can fall from it. Where possible, scaffolds over twenty feet high, shall have safety rail properly bolted, braced and secured.

In any building under construction in which the space between the enclosing walls is more than twenty-four feet, proper intermediate supports for joists, beams, etc., must be built and maintained.

In all buildings, except private houses, under construction, it shall be the duty of the contractor to display on each floor a placard telling the load per square foot which may be applied with safety to that particular floor.

Local authorities are ordered to notify deputy inspectors of any scaffold or swings that may seem unsafe. All scaffolds and swings must be so constructed to bear four times the maximum weight to be put upon them. The contractors, owners and those directing the work are held responsible for any accidents which may occur through violations of this act.

Picnickers Discover Chiggers.

Parties who have picnicked in this vicinity report that they have discovered several nests of chiggers in the high grass and they fear that the pest may become prevalent, as the present season is one in which they flourish. Chiggers are decidedly worse than mosquitoes. They are so small they can not be seen and they dig under the skin and die, leaving a bump which festers and becomes very sore.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mumma are entertaining friends from St. Charles.

WHAT TO WEAR.

A Charming Demiseason Gown—New Sunshade—Neck Adornments.

Not as sheer or as crisp as gauze are the panama voiles, yet they are transparent and have a certain wiry effect that makes them charming materials for summer gowns. A model in palest silver gray, rather simply executed, shows a skirt which has a seam down the middle of the front and is of circular shape and barely escapes the ground. It is mounted upon a taffeta petticoat in a slightly darker tone of gray.

The ferrule is the most important part of the stick of the summer parasol, and in the ultra designs the handle is actually placed at what is usually the ferrule end.

The innumerable fashionable trifles for the neck—the lace and muslin

cravats, jabots and plastrons, collars, and so on—are important aids in building up a toilet representative of the last word of fashion. Fascinating among the simpler articles are the scarfs of embroidered muslin which are sometimes used for fichus and again are wound around the neck in loose fashion, with the ends confined at the belt and allowed to meander down the skirt. These sheer fabrics may be trifles, but they are unlimited in variety, and unlimited they may also prove in the matter of cost.

Dotted swiss is being greatly used for nightgowns this summer, and it is a really dainty and attractive fabric for this purpose. In this pictured instance the gown is of swiss, trimmed with frills of embroidery and beading threaded with ribbon, serving the double purpose of trimming and regulating the neck size. JUDIC CHOLLET.

MODISTIC MATTERS.

Fancies In Midseason Fabrics—Crocheted Buttons Modish.

Of course the foulards have always been more or less fashionable in the polka dot design, and this year they are back into favor with renewed popularity. The polka dot pongees and royals are equally fashionable, and there are also many new fabrics on the order of veilings shown in the polka dot design. Cotton and linen goods on this order are extremely fashionable both in the heavy qualities suitable for morning suits and in the thin batistes and lawns for afternoon and evening wear.

Much confusion ensues often from the differences between the several names given to one color. In some places the French terms will be used, and the materials also will be similarly designated. In other instances English names will be used for both and in still others coined words of fancy names that are sometimes changed during the season.

Crocheted buttons of linen are expensive, but they add greatly to the effect of a little cape coat or longer redingote styles that are so desirable for linen suits this summer.

The illustration shows a new jumper effect in pink linen trimmed with bands of the material worked in large dots with heavy embroidery cotton. For a young girl this is one of the most satisfactory of summer afternoon gowns. JUDIC CHOLLET.

What a New Jersey Editor Says.

M. T. Lynch, editor of the Phillipsburg, N. J., Daily Post, writes: "I have used many kinds of medicines for coughs and colds in my family, but never anything so good as Foley's Honey and Tar. I cannot say too much in praise of it." Sold by Rowland Bros.

Reade's Eccentric English.

Reade's use of the English language, too, was eccentric, not to say ludicrous. In "A Simpleton," when he wished to signify that two people turned their backs on each other in a fit of temper, he wrote, "They showed napes." Describing the complexion of the New Haven fishwives in "Christie Johnstone," he says, "It is a race of women that the northern sun peachifies instead of rosewoodizing.'" In "Readiana" he describes a gentleman giving a lunch to two ladies at a railway restaurant as follows: "He souped them, he tough chickened them, he brandied and cochinealed one, and he brandied and burnt sugared the other (brandy and cochineal and brandy and burnt sugar being Reade's euphemisms for port and sherry respectively). While he was preparing his series of articles on Old Testament characters he read what he had written to John Coleman on one occasion and came to this startling passage in his argument:

"Having now arrived at this conclusion, we must go the whole hog or none."

Coleman objected to this phrase.

"You don't like the hog, I see," said Reade. "Well, it's a strong figure of speech, and it's understanded of the people, but—yes, you are right. It's scarcely Scriptural, so out it goes."—Gentleman's Magazine.

Bass Are Real Cute.

It is related for a fact that the reason bass jump—and it is common practice of the fish—is because they wish to acquire grace and strength in testing their ability against that of fishermen.

Several men who say they know what they are talking about point out that bass do most of their jumping during the spring and are especially active just before the open season begins.

At this time they may be seen doing long distance jumps, somersaults and side stepping.

One bass expert goes so far as to say that he spent an entire afternoon watching a three pound bass dragging a long willow sapling through the water and acting as if it were caught on a hook.

Leaping into the air, it would turn in a half circle as if to disgorge the barb, and then it would swim backward in an endeavor to snap the branch.

This fisherman asserts that what jumping the bass do during the summer is merely to keep in practice and not get stale.—Philadelphia North American.

Sandy's Criticism.

A young Scotchman went to a London school of music, where he learned to play the violoncello fairly well. On his return to his native village he gathered his friends together to hear his new instrument. When he had played one or two tunes, he looked up expectantly. After a slight pause his old grandfather spoke.

"Eh, maun," he said, "it's a maircy there's na smell wi' it!"—Liverpool Mercury.

He Knew.

Lady Customer—I wish to tell you how these shoes of mine are to be made. Shoemaker—Oh, I know that well enough—large inside and small outside.—Meggendorfer Blatter.

Pretty Bad.

Wife — Aren't you going to smoke those cigars I gave you? Husband—No; I'm keeping them till Tommy begins to want to smoke. They'll settle it!—Illustrated Bits.

Authoritative.

"So you are going to leave your studio?"

"Leave? No. Who told you so?"

"Your landlord." — Philadelphia Inquirer.

Self conquest is the greatest victory. —Plato.

Improving Nature.

To "paint the lily; to gild refined gold," when taken in a literal sense, seem processes too absurd for serious deliberation. Flowers of unnatural hues, however, bloom in florists' windows, and the color green as applied to the carnation is no longer confined to the title of a book. But the Persians do even worse things in the name of beauty. They dress up their flowers, according to Mr. Wills in "The Land of Lion and Sun."

Persia is not a land of flowers. Zinnias, convolvulus, asters, balsams, wallflowers, chrysanthemums, marigolds and roses are the principal blooms of the country.

The Persians, not content with the plain flower, cut rings of colored paper, cloth or velvet and ornament the bloom, placing the circles of divers hues between the first and second rows of petals.

The effect is strange. One, at first glance, supposes he sees a bouquet of curious and bizarre flowers of entirely new varieties.

The Boomerang and Its Inventors.

The boomerang is rather a puzzle. One might think that the highest laws of mathematics had been laid under contribution in the perfecting of it. The convexity on one side, the flatness on the other and the sharp, knifelike edge on the inside of the convexity have the air of having been carefully thought out. Yet the people who invented this singular weapon cannot count higher than five and are destitute of all the arts and amenities of life. Theirs is perhaps the lowest plane of human life. Some people have assumed that the boomerang was the creation of an older and higher civilization, but for this there is no evidence. It must be the product of an age long empirical use of throwing weapons.—London Spectator.

They Lace in Front

The construction of our front laced corsets bespeaks to the logical mind their superiority over any back laced corsets. They improve all figures with minimum of alteration. This is made possible by the front lacing feature, which permits the adjustment in front—at the bottom—where it is needed. Your figure adapts itself with utmost ease to the graceful lines of our marvelous corsets. We do not build a corset to FIT you. We build a corset that YOU will fit Not one figure in a hundred is an absolutely perfect model, yet ninety and nine of them desire to appear as such If the corset is made to fit them, the ninety and nine will appear to a disadvantage. If they yield their figures to the gently persuasive lines of our perfect corset, the little imperfections will be overcome and natural graces emphasized.

The sculptured ideals do not surpass the beauty of this wondrous corset back. Contemplate its proportion, lines and beauty, eloquent with grace, and no lacings there to bulge, even changing the languag from a pair to one. Our Corset being in one piece, therefore it may no longer be referred to as "a pair of stays."

They Lace in Front

These corsets sell at the reasonable price of $5 and up. Economical women will find that one Gossard corset at $5 is actually cheaper than 5 ordinary corsets at $2 each.

They Lace in Front

The single fact that they lace in front makes them superior to all other corsets. The principle of construction is right—right for grace—right for health—right for style.

Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. ZEKE SHARP'S COMPROMISE

By A. A. PATRICK

Copyright, 1905, by E. C. Parcells

Mrs. Miranda Bilks was a widow—that is to say, Mr. Bilks had suffered demise from the effects of a too hearty meal on peach cobbler, thus leaving his spouse, Miranda, and his daughter, little Miranda, to live as best they might off his none too generous estate, which same was comprised of an ax, a hoe, a spade, a pair of soleless shoes and a pair of trousers, with sundry repairings fore and aft.

Mrs. Bilks therefore did not desert her calling, but continued to bend over the washtub and rub and scrub from morning until night. And so the years slipped away, bringing Mrs. Miranda to middle age and crowning Miss Miranda with the dower of sweet sixteen.

I use the word "dower" advisedly, for it was about this time that Miss Miranda was thinking seriously of matrimony, and nothing under the sun had she but—just sweet sixteen. The real cause of her cogitations on so important a matter was to be found in the person of one Zeke Sharp, a mild mannered, easy going widower with six children. Zeke was not burdened with intellect. It was even supposed by his neighbors that he was entirely innocent of having any of that great force hidden about his anatomy.

This, however, mattered not, for he paid court to Miss Miranda with an assiduity that was marvelous. Indeed it was often only after clear and emphatic intimations from Mrs. Bilks, who looked upon his attentions to her daughter with extreme scorn, that he took himself off.

Far was it, though, from Mr. Sharp's intentions to be discarded and forgotten in such a manner, for he invariably returned the next day to renew his wooings with increased fervor. This state of affairs continued for some time.

At last Mrs. Bilks grew suspicious. There was a lurking fear in her mind that the association of Zeke and Miss Miranda was more congenial than she had believed, or, for that matter, more than they had cared to reveal.

To verify these suspicions Mrs. Bilks ensconced herself behind a door near where the couple sat in order that she might the better catch the drift of their conversation. What she heard satisfied her beyond question that she had surmised correctly. With much dispatch, therefore, she set aside the washtub, doused the fire under the kettle with water and, donning her best frock, hurried to the office of the county clerk, where, with a long pointed finger, she warned that gentleman not to be "givin' of any licenses to Miranda Bilks an' that rapscallion Zeke Sharp."

Then she returned home in a very complacent humor with herself for having forestalled the elopers. She was hardly prepared, though, for the consequent developments, and it was with much surprise that she herself received a visit from Zeke Sharp.

Zeke tapped lightly on the front door. Mrs. Bilks answered the knock and coldly informed him that "Miranda wasn't to home."

"It be you I wuz a-wantin' to see, anyways," responded Zeke in a feeble voice.

At this piece of news Mrs. Bilks' eyes widened perceptibly as she regarded her caller for a moment. It wasn't necessary, however, for her to invite him in, for Zeke was already in and seated.

"I shore wuz sorry, Miz Bilks, 'cause you wouldn't let me an' Mirandy have them licenses." And Zeke sighed wearily.

"Licenses be fudged!" snapped Mrs. Bilks. "Things air a-comin' to a purty pass when a man wants to lope off with a gal 'tain't more'n sixteen an' ain't never baked bread ner stitched a stitch, much less tended to a house jam' full o' chillern, like you already got. Seems to me you'd a-picked a woman a little nigher yer own age an' one what knows how ter do somethin'."

Here Mrs. Bilks smoothed out a garment on the ironing board, took up an iron and worked industriously as she waited for Zeke to reply.

"That's jes' what I come to see you about," replied the meek man. "You know if our heads wuz set me an' Mi would be sure to find out, and I'd die before I let her know."

"I might put the dog in pawn," he suggested whimsically. "Poor Bruce is about all the light fingered gentry left me."

He regarded the ragged little fellow with affectionate interest. The dog had been his dead brother's pet, and, while his rough coat gave him a shockingly disreputable appearance, Bruce was clever beyond the run of dogs.

During his brother's last illness Ballington had taught the dog a score of clever tricks for the invalid's amusement, and Bruce was proud of his accomplishments. Feeling that he was being made the subject of the conversation, the little fellow gravely turned a somersault and sat up on his haunches. For a moment Ballington regarded his pet's accomplishment with speculative eye.

"Do you mind if I leave you a little while?" he asked.

"You are not going to the Bruntons?" she demanded suspiciously.

"My word of honor," he said simply. "May I suggest that you get yourself a cup of tea at the hotel?" He placed some coins in her hand and with a bow strolled out of the station.

It was difficult to get anything at the hotel with the fair goers invading the place, but at last she succeeded in getting a light lunch and started back to the station.

The special excursion trains were pulling out of the station now, and the platform was crowded with tired pleasure seekers. Off at one side a large crowd had gathered, and, finding that Ballington was not in the station, she strolled over to see what the attraction might be.

With a gasp she saw that Ballington was putting Bruce through his tricks for the edification of the crowd, and with a sudden rush of anger she wondered if he had been drinking. Then with a revulsion of feeling she saw him gravely remove his hat and pass it around the crowd. Most of them melted away, but many of them stopped to drop a coin in the hat and pet the dog. At last they were all gone, and with a flushed face she was looking straight into Ballington's laughing eyes.

"I've got enough for the fares and the Pullman seats," he said as he came toward her. "Behold Bruce, the rescuer of damsels in distress."

She caught the dog up in her arms and hid her moist eyes in his shaggy coat. Slowly she turned toward the station, but Ballington laid a hand upon her arm.

"I would suggest," he said, "that since our train is not due for an hour yet and as these excursion trains will be out of the way by then it might prove less embarrassing to you if you waited until they were gone. They might recognize your traveling companion."

"And to think I might have spared you this if I had let you telephone the Bruntons," she said penitently. Ballington laughed.

"Do you know I rather enjoyed it?" he confessed. "I think Bruce did too. He shall have his reward tonight in the best chicken to be had in the market."

"And you?" she asked.

"I shall have the satisfaction of knowing that we have fooled Mrs. Brunton," he laughed carelessly.

She held out her hand. "I refused you the other day because I was afraid you were too dandified to be human," she said softly. "I know better now. Will you ask me again?"

But there was no need to ask. Eyes spoke to eyes, and each knew the other's message.

A Legacy.

"What's your fare?" asked old Flintskin of his cabby the other day and was met with the stereotyped reply:

"Well, sir, I will leave that to you."

"Thank you, you are very kind," said old Flintskin, buttoning up his pockets and walking off. "You're the first person who ever left me anything yet."—London Mail.

"SOAKS" THE TRUST

Judge Landis Has the Distinction of Having Assessed the World Record Fine.

OVER TWENTY-NINE MILLIONS

He Also Roasts the Rockefeller Combine for Total Depravity.

HE WOULD LIKE TO JUG SOMEBODY

Starts a New Grand Jury Investigation That May Yet Land Some Big Fish Where He Wants Them.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—The heaviest fine in the world's history—$29,240,00 — has been imposed by Judge Landis, of the United States district court, on the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, a branch of John D. Rockefeller's great corporation. The maximum fine of $20,000 on each of 1,462 counts charging violations of the federal laws governing the accepting of railroad rebates was assessed. This vast sum of money is not to be paid without protest, however. Attorneys for the oil corporation announced their intention of perfecting an appeal to the United States court of appeals, and from there the case will go to the federal supreme court.

And There's Worse a-Coming.

It was also recalled that there still are pending against the oil corporation seven indictments like the one just disposed of, containing 4,422 counts. Should there be convictions on all these counts there would be possible additional fines of $88,440,000. Then Judge Landis added further to the troubles of the great trust by saying: "One thing remains; it must not be assumed that in this jurisdiction these laws may be ignored. The plain demands of justice require that the facts disclosed in this proceeding be submitted to a grand jury with a view to the consideration of the conduct of the other party to these transactions. Let an order be entered for a panel of sixty men, returnable the morning of Aug. 14 at 10 o'clock."

Judge's Mother Is Present.

In the throng in the court room when the decision was announced were several women. The most interested spectator in the room was the aged mother of Judge Landis, who had come from her Indiana home to hear the last words in the trial that has made her son a national figure. A chair was placed for her near the entrance to his chambers, and with undeviating gaze and rapt attention she bent forward toward the jurist's bench throughout the reading of the voluminous document and frequently nodded her head in approval.

POINTS FROM THE DECISION

How the Judge Replies to the Defendants Contentions.

Judge Landis took up the contentions of the defense one after the other, and these are some of his replies: The defendant alleged that by authorizing common carriers to establish rates which, when published and filed, shall be binding upon the shipper, the law delegates to the carrier legislative power which is conferred upon congress exclusively by a general grant in the constitution. This was dismissed with the comment that the supreme court of the United States has ruled adversely to the contention in several instances where the same question arose on state statutes.

The allegation that the company had a natural right to make a private contract for a railroad rate is met with the assertion that "candor obliges the court to say that he knows of nothing to support the proposition, but the eminence of counsel who advance it," and the judge holds that of the two parties to the contract one was a railway common carrier, that it was a public functionary, that it acquired its property under the law of eminent domain, that property thus acquired must be used for the benefit of the entire public. The railway was fundamentally incompetent to make a private contract, the judge held.

In enforcing this view of the matter the judge declared that there was no more reason for the claim of a natural right of private contract in such a case than there would be for the claim of similar right to private contract with the collector of customs or a tax assessor for a secret valuation of property.

The defendant argued that the commerce involved in the case was not interstate, the argument being that it was all in Illinois on the ground that for convenience in transportation Whiting, Ind., was included in the Chicago shipping district. Judge Landis refused to accept this view, insisting that as the oil was shipped from Whiting, which is actually in Indiana, to East St. Louis which is actually in Illinois, the commerce was interstate.

An important point, one which actually decided the size of the fine was the one involving the definition of a shipment. The indictment charged that the oil trust had shipped oil from Whiting, Ind., to East St. Louis, Ill., at 6 cents per 100 pounds, when the rate filed with the interstate commerce commission was 18 cents, and the indictment made every car load a shipment. The company insisted that the number of shipments should be governed first by the number of applications at the railway office for a rate, which was three; or by the number of bills rendered by the railway company, which was thirty-six; or by the number of train loads. The judge set aside all these propositions on the ground that the rate was on a car load basis, and insisted that a shipment was a car load, regardless of how many car loads were in the same train. So the fine was assessed on each car load.

ROASTS THE CORPORATION

Declares It No Better Than a Common Thief in Conduct.

In his utterances against the oil company preliminary to assessing the great fine, and also preliminary to the calling of the other grand jury, Judge Landis clearly expressed his belief that the Standard Oil company was no better than a common thief, emphasizing the position that he has taken throughout the trial. "The men who deliberately violate this law," said he, "wound society more deeply than he who counterfeits coin or steals letters from the mail."

The company had pleaded that its traffic manager had inquired of the railway as to the legal rate for oil and was told that it was 6 cents, and that this rate had been filed with the interstate board. The judge refused to believe that the company did not know that this statement was false, and insisted that it accepted the concession knowingly, thus charging perjury against the company's witness.

He also characterized as "studied insilence * * * aimed at this court" the request of the defense that he pay "no attention to gossip of the street or the charges of the mob." He also expressed regret that he could not under the law send the oil trust officials to prison.

PREPARING FOR NEXT ROUND

Government Must Hurry Because of the Statue of Limitations.

Preparations for the second federal inquiry into the relations between the Standard Oil company and the Chicago and Alton road ordered by Judge Landis have been begun. The call for the special grand jury will be issued and United States District Attorney Sims will go over all the evidence presented at the recent trial of the Standard Oil company which resulted in its conviction and the big fine and will select the witnesses to be subpoenaed.

It has developed that the reason for haste in this investigation is that the statute of limitation is running against the government, and because of it the Chicago and Alton will escape re-indictment on between eighty and 100 counts of the 1,462 on which the Standard Oil company was convicted.

This statute of limitations bars prosecution on offenses committed more than three years before indictment. Many of the shipments on which the Standard Oil company was convicted of accepting rebates occurred between September, 1903, and August, 1904. When the grand jury convenes on Aug. 14 a few days will suffice to present the evidence against the Alton.

DOESN'T FEAZE JOHN D.

Playing Golf When He Hears the News and Plays Ahead.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 5.—John D. Rockefeller, who, aside from Judge Landis, is the central figure in the Standard Oil history of today, was enthusiastically engaged in a game of golf when word was received that the Standard Oil Company had been fined $29,240,000. A message was handed to him telling of the big fine that had been assessed against the Standard Oil Company. As he stood and read the missive, scanning it with almost a mere glance, not a muscle of his face twitched in a manner that would indicate any feeling. Not a word did he speak regarding the news. Absolutely nothing transpired that would indicate that he was angered or even annoyed. Later Rockefeller stated that he would not discuss the action of the court in even the slightest degree for purpose of publication. After reading the message Rockefeller resumed his game, laughing and joking as he played with even renewed energy, and won a victory from his opponent.

After reading the telegram the first words Rockefeller uttered were: "Well, shall we go on, gentlemen?" and he proceeded with all deliberation to drive 160 yards.

After a bit some one mustered up courage to ask: "How much is it?"

"Twenty-nine million, two hundred and forty thousand, the maximum penalty, I believe," replied Rockefeller. "It is your honor. Will you gentlemen drive?"

NEW BLAST AT THE OCTOPUS

Herbert Knox Smith Says It Hasn't Reduced Product Prices.

Washington, Aug. 5. — Significant revelations are made public in a report submitted to President Roosevelt by Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations, concerning the operations of the Standard Oil company. In a previous report the means and methods of the Standard were explained. The present report sets forth the results of those methods and the effect they have had on the consumer of oil and on the profits of the Standard Oil company. It deals with profits and prices, showing just how the manipulation of the oil industry by the Standard has affected the pocketbooks of the people.

Commissioner Smith says: "The Standard Oil company is responsible for the course of prices of petroleum and its products during the last twenty-five years. The Standard has consistently used its power to raise the prices of oil during the last ten years, not only absolutely but also relatively to the cost of crude oil." The Standard has claimed that it has reduced the price of oil; that it has been a benefit to the consumer, and that only a great combination like the Standard could have furnished oil at the prices that have prevailed.

"Each one of these claims," says Commissioner Smith, "is disproved by this report." The increase in annual profits of the Standard from 1896 to 1904 was over $27,000,000. The figures on which the statement is based that the Standard has not reduced prices begin with the year 1897. The report says: "The total dividends paid by the Standard from 1882 to 1906 were $551,922,904, averaging thus 24.15 per cent. per year. The dividends, however, were much less than the total earnings. It is substantially certain that the entire net earnings of the Standard from 1882 to 1906 were at least $790,000,000, and possibly much more. These enormous profits have been based on an investment worth at the time of its original acquisition not more than $75,000,000."

In his letter to President Roosevelt transmitting the report Commissioner Smith says: "Its domination has not been acquired or maintained by its superior efficiency, but rather by unfair competition and by methods economically and morally unjustifiable. The Standard has superior efficiency in running its own business; it has an equal efficiency in destroying the business of competitors. * * * Its profits are far above the highest possible standard of a reasonable commercial return, and have been steadily increasing. Finally, the history of this great industry is a history of the persistent use of the worst industrial methods, the exaction of exorbitant prices from the consumer, and the securing of excessive profits for the small group of men who over a long series of years have thus dominated the business."

OUR RESPECT FOR LAW

Alleged Incendiarism by Wisconsin Farmers—Negro Village Completely Wiped Out.

Winona, Minn., Aug. 5. — Porterville, a newly-organized village just across the river in Wisconsin, the inhabitants of which are negroes, has been completely destroyed by fire.

It is reported that the fire was started by Wisconsin farmers, who were incensed at the action of the negroes in building up a negro village in the community. The buildings burned were flimsy structures and the loss is small.

Three Stepped to Their Death.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—Ralph Berger, 21 years old, and Horace Berger, 15 years old, brothers, and Herman Volkman, 21 years old, were instantly killed while walking on the tracks of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad at Naperville, 29 miles west of here. They stepped aside to avoid a freight train and were struck by a passenger train.

Woman's Corpse in the Lake.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—The body of a woman, apparently of foreign birth and 50 years of age, was taken from the water in Lake Michigan twenty miles from Chicago by a crew of an incoming excursion steamer. A gold watch and chain and a steamer ticket from Chicago to Milwaukee were found in her clothing.

Still Another Victim.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 5.—Mrs. Charles H. Law, of Philadelphia, was killed in a collision between an automobile and a trolley car at Chalsea.

HOSPITALITY.

The people of Dixon, as we have heard suggested, are under obligations to Wm. B. Brinton for entertaining distinguished Chautauqua speakers, who come here from abroad, to the extent he has recently. Under a former Assembly management distinguished lecturers were sent to the hotels—and sometimes second class inns at that. So it is well for the credit of our city that Colonel Brinton has taken the matter in hand. The entertainment of Colonel Bryan, however, was a natural result of political sympathy, but his entertainment of ex-Governor Yates was a case of personal friendship as well as the result of a generous hospitality. Colonel Brinton and ex-Governor Yates have long been personal friends and when governor the latter appointed Colonel Brinton at the head of the Illinois commission for the World's Fair at Omaha, where the Colonel illustrated the wisdom of the appointment by turning back into the treasury of the state nearly forty thousand dollars of unexpended funds, a bit of economy and saving for the people not in the least usual, as we all must concede. The Brintons truly are people handy to have here with us for hospitality's sake.

The Democrats are charging President Roosevelt with the trouble between North Carolina and the Federal courts that have recently enjoined that state from enforcing a rate law of two and one-fourth cents per mile. This accusation is all nonsense, and the President is not trying to overthrow the sovereignty of any state, and while the Federal government has recently exercised larger powers than at any time since the civil war, it has only exercised powers that were dormant (no new departures), and they were exercised only where they were required for the good of the states, and where the states were unable to accomplish the good sought. It can be stated on the best authority that Mr. Roosevelt is as firm a believer in the rights of the individual states as any American living, and he regrets as much as any one to see a conflict between state and national authority.

Doctor Mark Twain is prescribing his same old remedy—laughter.

BROKE HER ANKLE JUMPING FROM RIG

MISS LULU STEDMAN OF HARMON INJURED IN RUNAWAY ACCIDENT.

TO TEST VILLAGE WELL TODAY

Fears Entertained That Harmon Well is Not Deep Enough—General News.

Harmon, Ill., Aug. 5.—Miss Lulu Stedman, in jumping from a carriage, attached to a runaway team broke several bones of her right ankle.

Miss Stedman, her father, Wm. F. Stedman, Mrs. C. W. Brown, Miss Stedman's sister, and her two children, were on their way from Stone Station to visit friends in Amboy when the accident occurred.

The team driven was a young one and about a mile east of the village one of the horses became nervous and began kicking and they soon became unmanageable. They started toward the north side of the road, where there was a deep and narrow ditch. Miss Stedman, who was on the south side of the carriage, and seeing that an upset was inevitable, thought to save herself by jumping, which she did, and lit on her right foot in such a way as to sustain several bad fractures of the ankle bones. The horses proceeded towards the ditch and when the left wheels struck the same Mrs. Brown and her two children were thrown from the rig, but none of the parties received serious injury. In running into the ditch or while struggling therein the left leg of one of the horses was severely cut and it may be that the animal will have to be killed.

Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Crook were a short distance in the rear of the Stedmans and hurried to their assistance, when Miss Stedman was taken to the office of Dr. DuVall, where the fracture was reduced.

The accident occurred about 6:30 Saturday evening.

Juniors' Dance a Success.

A large crowd attended the dance given under the auspices of the Junior base ball club last Friday evening. About a dozen young ladies and gentlemen from Dixon drove out, and there were visitors from Amboy and Sterling. An Amboy orchestra furnished the music, which pleased all. The evening was just cool enough to make dancing a pleasure.

Building a New Barn.

Last week A. E. Brown of Hamilton hauled lumber to build him a barn, which will be 36 x 36, with 16 foot posts, and a cattle shed the length of one of the sides.

The number of new buildings now under construction in this neighborhood this year is very small, and prospects for later in the season are poor. There has been considerable repairing of farm buildings made necessary, in part at least, by the wind storms that swept the country last month and wrecked a number of barns, corn cribs and other out-buildings.

To Test Village Well.

If certain repairs, which have been ordered, arrive in time, the necessary pumping machinery to test the water works well will be installed today. The well is now 532 feet deep and water stands within ten feet of the top, and that depth could not be reduced more than seven feet by the partial test made with an ordinary lifting pump. The cylinder to be used in the test is only supposed to pump fifty gallons a minute. Pumping machinery to be installed permanently will raise one hundred gallons a minute.

Mr. Stultz, the contractor, has promised to operate his engine to do the pumping. He and probably a majority of the members of the village board are of the opinion that there is now sufficient water for water works purposes. An expert who has drilled hundreds of deep wells all over this part of the country, in talking over the matter a few days ago, expressed the opinion that there was not enough water in the well at its present depth to keep a hundred gallon a minute pump going half the time, and that forty gallons a minute is a fair estimate of the water obtainable from a 500-foot well here. He said further that to get a supply of a hundred gallons a minute the well would have to be drilled from nine to eleven hundred feet deep.

THROWING THINGS AWAY.

The Time When You Weary of Hoarded Incumbrances.

"I am beginning to throw away things," said Mr. Flittingby, according to the New York Sun—"going through my papers and things and throwing things away.

"I find among them newspaper clippings about things that I would never have thought of again but for this reminder and some things I have forgotten so completely that even the sight of the clippings does not recall to me why I cut them out and saved them, so unimportant really are many of the things about which we bother ourselves or which at some time we found of interest.

"There are letters from men long since dead, and old bills that recall forgotten periods of our life that now seem strange to us, we live so much in the present. And why keep these old receipts? The men that gave them are dead now or moved away, and these accounts will never be sent in again, and if they were they have long since been outlawed by the lapse of time. Throw them away.

"Here are old birthday cards, with pretty, with affectionate, with loving greetings, bringing most pleasant memories, though they do remind us of the years that have gone since first they came to us. And why should we preserve them longer? We can remember, we can cherish those who sent them without them to remind us, and they would only lie there with the old papers in the drawers. To the basket gently with them.

"And here, as I live, are some old valentines! Well, well! This does make us young again. But, dear, dear, that was long ago. Why should we keep them longer? To the basket gently. We have the valentine herself now.

"There are so many things that we put away to save, to treasure. Life seems to stretch away interminably before us when we are young and we are going to keep these things always, and it takes us happily a long, long time to get where we can see the beginning of the end. Youth envelops us with a buoyancy and strength that make life seem a joy that is to go on forever, and in sturdy middle age, indeed, we take little account of the years, but then comes a time when we begin to realize that two and two make four and no more.

"Now, I have arrived at that time of life when I begin to know. Don't, for heaven's sake, think that I am taking a mournful view. Far from it. "Life never seemed to me so full of joy as now, and I'm good for a good long stretch of it; yet, with senses keen and understanding broadening, finding enjoyment in everything and taking this broader view of things, not occupied too much by detail, this stored up accumulation of long gathering truck seems superfluous and useless, and so I'm just going through it and throwing things away.

"This lot that I've been going through today is just stuff that has accumulated in the cubbyholes in my desk, but I've got boxes and bundles of such stuff stored away, and I must get it out, a box or a bundle at a time, and go through it and throw it away, for of what use will it ever be to anybody? What becomes of this sort of stuff, anyway, when people—er-r—I mean why shouldn't I sort this stuff out now myself and not leave it to cumber things up for somebody else to throw away?

"There may be some things, to be sure, that I'll want to save, things that other people will want to keep, and these things I will save; but as to the bulk of this stuff, why, it's just so much hindering, useless baggage, and this I'll throw away and with the decks cleared start life anew."

DIXON PEOPLE SAW THE MIDNIGHT SUN

GLORIOUS SIGHT WITNESSED BY MR. AND MRS. GEO. C. LOVELAND.

A WEEK OF CONTINUOUS DAY

Writes Description of Trip to the Most Northerly City in the World.

Geo. C. Loveland of this city, who with his wife is touring in Norway, writes the following interesting description of the midnight sun, which they saw while in Hammerfest, the most northerly town in the world. The letter was written to F. X. Newcomer under date of July 15 th, and is as follows:

The midnight sun is ours. Saw it in the fullest last night. We steamed from Trondhjem four days ago, stopping at places of interest on Norway's west coast, after doing the beautiful Fjords in the southern part of the country. All day yesterday, on our steamer, we speculated on the prospects of a clear night. But the chances were dead against us, great banks of clouds hung about the snow clad mountains, lifting in places, so that we saw several broad glaciers and at times we got a gleam of sunshine.

We arrived here at 10 p. m. Then the sun was battling with the clouds, hurling its golden arrows, trying to pierce through them, but they glanced off and we could see its rays but dimly. We dropped our luggage at the hotel and away, to climb to the highest point of a rocky hill, which rises directly back of the town. The outlook was certainly discouraging. It sprinkled a little. All but four of the tourists decided our trip would be a failure and returned, but we, after traveling several thousand miles to see the sun at midnight, pushed on and up. Armies of dense clouds now advanced in a threatening manner as though determined the sun should stay in the background. On the flanks of the black clouds were billowy ones. The horizon in places was quite clear. We clambered onto the summit, at half past eleven. But one small cloud and that of peculiar form, stood in the way. It had a jagged top, and as it received the full strength of the sun's rays, it appeared as a crown of gold suspended in the sky. This passed quickly, and at 11:45 the sun strode forth in all its glory and fullness. It was like a plate of burnished silver and seemed nearer to us than ever before. We could see three black spots on it, (they were very small.) It then appeared to stop in its descent and remained stationary for about ten minutes, then it started on its eastern course, a snow bank about 100 feet wide on the side of a small hill just before us we used as a guage. The sun moved very slowly in passing this. We then noticed it was ascending; the cloud effects were fine, tinted sea shells, golden rods and brilliant ferns. We never knew the sun was quite so attractive. We watched it for an hour or more. It was then tomorrow. We had had no evening, no night, no dawn, no morning, simply had a continuous day of sunshine, and so it will remain until the 29th of this month. As we stand on this mountain in the solitude, we look afar out to the east on the Arctic ocean. All about us are other mountains, streaked with bands of snow. At our feet and more than 1,500 feet below, is a large Fjord and from it several smaller ones extend, separating the mountains. Two--mast fishing boats are coming in, and others sailing out, at the docks of our small town (about 2,500.) We see about forty two-mast Russian schooners being loaded with fish; they buy dogfish and other obnoxious brands that no other country will have.

This is the largest fish market in the world, and also of cod liver oil We saw two German torpedo boats glide quietly into the harbor. The kaiser left here yesterday for the North Cape and Spitzbergen. The majority go to the North Cape to see the midnight sun, and the great, great majority do not see it, owing to mists, fogs and general heavy weather that prevails there. It is but six hours by steamer from here. We were advised by parties who were posted to stop at Hammerfest to get the sun, in preference to North Cape, unless we preferred to say later that we had been to the North Cape. The North Cape tourists are allowed but five hours then before the start on the

At the Chautauqua Hall Friday afternoon Captain A. C. Bardwell delivered a very able and scholarly address on Rooseveltism, which was appreciated so highly that applause was frequent. In general the policy of the administration was commended, its beneficient workings clearly shown. The folly of imposing a fine on corporations that violate the law was clearly shown, all such being in the end paid by the consumer.

This series of lectures will interest return. We preferred Hammerfest, and arranged to remain there three nights which has proven perfectly satisfactory. Tonight we climb a steep, high hill east of the town to get a different view of the sun at midnight. Returning to our hotel about 1:30 we saw a bunch of reindeer feeding; still below, men were fishing for mountain trout, a carpenter was building a boat, children were playing in a yard. We strolled about, looking in shop windows, and at the pictures posted outside. It was day, just as much as it would be eight hours later. We were at Tromso yesterday when Wellman and others received their outfits for visiting the north pole.

Saw a number of Laplanders in their peculiar dress of reindeer skins and gay head covering. They have a village near. They are much dirtier in this town and vicinity. The king of Siam passed us yesterday in a private English yacht, also the Prince of Monaca in his yacht. We return to Trondhjem this week, stopping at the Loffoden Islands again. Expect to get into Sweden next week. Hope to get Dixon papers at Trondhjem. May this find you well.

BROWNS TRIMMED FREEPORT SATURDAY AND LOST HARD LUCK GAME SUNDAY.

The Browns and Freeport Crescents put up a great exhibition at Athletic park Saturday afternoon and after a hard fight all the way, the local boys brought home the potato salad one point to the good.

Stift was in the box for Miller's boys and he twirled base ball as if he had never done anything but stand in the center and hurl the sphere up for the batters. He used his noodle all the time and had good control of his throws.

L. Woodyatt played second for the Browns and did remarkably well, while Gonnerman at short played a superb fielding game. Gonnie, with a little coaching, would sure make a big leaguer. Brink was another strange face in the line-up.

DeKalb 2, Dixon 1.

The Browns played up to their ears in their game at DeKalb Sunday afternoon, and as a result lost by the same score they dropped the game a week ago. Ackerman had nothing on the boys from this city, while Richenbaugh held the DeKalb lads to two measly little hits. The Browns got nine bingles off the left handed boy, but at that lost the game.

That man Ackerman certainly had the good graces with him in the two games that have been played between the two teams. He has gotten away with stuff which any other twirler would be ashamed of trying. The Dixon boys were well treated and have nothing to complain of but their hard luck.

Van Bibber's Swissvilles took the Old Timers in to camp with remarkable ease in their game Sunday morning. The score was 18 to 3 and the Old Timers had the 3. Capt. Van's playing was the feature.

Whipple and Drew have signed with Amboy for the rest of the season. They played their first game with that team yesterday.

The Chicago Maroons next Saturday and Sunday. Should be the two best games of the year.

Hans Wagner leads the National league with the stick, with an average of 326. Clymer of Washington is the leader in the American league, with a 440 clip.

Sterling 14, Oakwoods 13.

The Dixon Oakwoods were defeated in their game with the Sterling Greys at Central park Sunday afternoon, in the wildest game seen in these parts in many days. Both pitchers had trouble in locating the plate and runs were forced in by this wildness. Stupid base running was also a feature. Whitebread, for the Oakwoods, struck out twelve men.

Grounders.

Bales is now leading off for Dubuque. He got a hit and one assist yesterday, figuring at the start of a double play.

Will the Sox stay on top?

The Dixon Colored Wonders beat the Sterling Indians 5 to 4 at Krieder's Springs Sunday afternoon.

Miss Teresa Coffey has returned home from a visit with friends in Dubuque.

Editor George Carpenter was here from Amboy Saturday and Sunday to attend the Assembly.

Thomas J. Parker of Peoria, who has been visiting at the home of his son, Dr. W. S. Parker, returned to his home Saturday. He was accompanied by his granddaughter, Miss Helen Parker, who will spend several weeks there.

Claude Price has accepted a position as helper with the local American Express force, to serve while other members of the force are taking their vacations. Agent G. A. Ward will leave next week for his vacation trip.

The Toledo Boiler Works employes have completed their contract with the Sandusky Cement company. There have been a very respectable number of men employed on the job and these have all left town for their homes or to take up other jobs.

S.S.S. PURELY VEGETABLE

S. S. S. is recognized everywhere not only as the best of all blood purifiers and the greatest of all tonics, but the one medicine that can be taken with absolute safety by everyone. Young or old, those in robust health, or those whose systems are delicate and run-down, may use it with the same good results, and equally without fear of any unpleasant or injurious after effects. Next in importance to removing the cause of any disease is the condition in which the system is left after a course of medical treatment. Medicines containing mercury, potash or other strong mineral ingredients often do permanent injury by eating out the delicate lining and tissues of the stomach, producing chronic Dyspepsia, unfavorably affecting the bowels, and so deranging the system otherwise, that even if the original disease had been removed from the system it is left in such a weakened and deranged condition that the health is permanently impaired. S. S. S. enjoys the distinction of being the only blood medicine on the market that does not contain a mineral ingredient of some kind. It is made entirely of the healing, cleansing extracts and juices of roots, herbs and barks gathered directly from the forests and fields of nature, under our own supervision, and when they reach our laboratory contain all their original valuable tonic and blood purifying properties. We offer a reward of $1,000 for proof that S. S. S. contains a particle of mineral in any form. Being made entirely from these vegetable ingredients S. S. S. is absolutely harmless to the system, and while curing disease adds health and strength to every part of the body. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Sores and Ulcers, Skin Diseases, Contagious Blood Poison, and all other blood troubles by removing the cause and supplying the circulation with health-giving and strength-producing qualities.

The LION AND The MOUSE

The Lion and the Mouse

That great American story of the present day exposing the unscrupulous methods of the money octopus novelized from Charles Klein's play

By Arthur Hornblow

ILLUSTRATED BY HEYER

Will begin in our next issue. We asked a brilliant woman who had seen the play what impressed her most. She said it was the victory of the young woman over the king of the trusts, the final triumph of the higher nature over the lower in which Shirley Rossmore frees John Ryder from the chains of his sordid ambitions and restores him to his better self, suggesting the fable of The Lion and the Mouse. This made the strongest impression, notwithstanding there is a beautiful love romance running through the story.

WASHINGTON POST

Will become the most talked of book of the year. As exciting and fascinating a narrative as has appeared in novel form in years.

MAGILLS OUT ON BAIL

Although the Charge is Murder, the Bail is Only $5,000 Each.

STATE IS PLEADING FOR TIME

Wants to Hunt Evidence to Prove the Charges—Poison for Right-of-Way Weeds.

Clinton, Ill., Aug. 5.—Partially successful in their efforts to prevent the postponement of their trial until November, and freed from the custody of the sheriff in bonds of $5,000 each, Fred Magill and his bride, Faye Graham Magill, received their friends at the home of Mrs. Magill's parents and assured them that the first steps in their fight to free themselves of the charge of murdering Mrs. Pet Magill had been accomplished satisfactorily. The honors in the first skirmish after the return of the indictments against the man and girl who married before the grass had more than begun to sprout aver the grave of the first Mrs. Magill seem to be with the defense.

Entitled to a Quick Trial.

If Judge Cochran cannot secure the services of one of the other two judges in this judicial circuit to preside over an immediate trial of the two defendants before a petit jury the case will of necessity go over until the November term of court. But the judge denied the plea of the prosecution that he definitely set the trial for that time, expressing the opinion that the prisoners were entitled to the earliest trial which could be arranged for them.

Bail is Soon Provided.

Immediately after Judge Cochran announced his decision the prisoners left the room for the county jail to await the making of arrangements by their bondsmen. Faye Magill was seen to lean over her father's shoulder just before leaving the court room. There was a brief whispered consultation, an interchange of understanding smiles, and the daughter hastened to join the sheriff's wife waiting at the door. Two hours later Faye had been released upon bonds signed by her father, W. W. Graham, her uncle, Dr. S. A. Graham, William Momsen, and W. H. Oglevee. Magill's bonds were signed by his mother and French Deland.

State Wants Plenty of Time.

One of the reasons put in an affidavit by the state for delaying the trial was that it needs time to find evidence to convict, particularly to investigate the information volunteered by Warren Holton, who states that he has positive evidence that Fred Magill murdered his wife, and that Faye Graham was accessory to that crime.

Ex-Judge G. K. Ingham and Attorney R. A. Lemon proceeded to analyze the affidavit. They said that there was no good reason set forth by the state as to why an immediate trial should not be granted. Mr. Ingham declared that the man Holton was a crank who had not evidence, and that the state had no right to keep the accused in jail all summer.

POISON FOR THE WEEDS.

New Scheme Adopted to Get Rid of Them by the Illinois Central Railway.

Bloomington, Ill., Aug. 5.—The Illinois Central railroad is testing a unique weed destroyer. The expense of cutting the weeds on the wide expanse of right-of-way of that system has led to experiments of various kinds, and the latest consists in the spraying of the weeds with a mixture of water and chemicals, 350 gallons being required to kill the weeds along every mile of track. The apparatus consists of a car containing two tanks, each holding 4,000 gallons of the fluid.

The mixture is forced by air pressure through eight perforated tubes, which extend across the tracks under the center of the car. The spray is thrown ten to fifteen feet on each side of the track and is said to be sure death to all vegetation. The solution can be applied at the rate of ten miles per hour. While one tank is being emptied the operatives are engaged in mixing the chemicals in the other, the water, which constitutes the major part of the solution, being obtained at convenient stations reached by the outfit.

Appealed to the Supreme Court.

Jacksonville, Ill., Aug. 5.—Judge O. P. Thompson rendered a decision in favor of Widmayer, Democrat, in the circuit court in the Widmayer-Davis mayoralty election contest, which has been in court since last May. Davis has been mayor for six years, and at the last election apparently won out by nineteen votes. Attorneys for Davis filed a motion for an appeal to the supreme court.

Died Raving and Snarling.

Bloomington, Ill., Aug. 5.—Raving and snarling in the throes of hydrophobia, George Davis, 12 years old, died in a Vermilion county hospital. The boy was bitten by a strange dog June 18. The animal seized one hand as he sought to pet it. Not much attention was paid to the wound.

Death of E. A. Gastman.

Decatur, Ill., Aug. 5.—E. A. Gastman, president of the Illinois state board of education and for forty-seven years superintendent of the Decatur city schools, is dead at Boston.

WHY SO WEAK?

Kidney Troubles May Be Sapping Your Life Away—Dixon People Have Learned This Fact.

When a healthy man or woman begins to run down without apparent cause, becomes weak, languid, depressed, suffers backache, headache, dizzy spells and urinary disorders, look to the kidneys for the cause of it all. Keep the kidneys well and they will keep you well. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and keep them well. Here is a Dixon testimony to prove it:

Thomas Brookner of 427 College avenue, Dixon, Ill., writes, "I was troubled with kidney complaint for over twenty years. During that time I was unable to do any lifting. I was unable to sit or lie comfortably in any position for any length of time. My back was so weak it caused me much pain. I was unable to rest at night, and would wake up many times during the night. When I arose in the morning I would not feel as though I had any rest at all, and would be lame and stiff across my back and loins. I consulted physicians, but their remedies gave me no relief. Doan's Kidney Pills were finally recommended to me by a friend and I procured a box at Leake Bros.' drug store and took them in accordance with the directions. In a short time I was feeling much better and after continuing the use of Doan's Kidney Pills for a few weeks I was completely cured, and have not been troubled with any form of kidney trouble since. Doan's Kidney Pills I consider the surest and safest kidney remedy there is."

There are a dozen people here who have used them and they give perfect satisfaction in every case. I have used them myself with fine results." Sold by Rowland Bros.

Ten Years in Bed.

"For ten years I was confined to my bed with disease of my kidneys," writes R. A. Gray, J. P. of Oakville, Ind. "It was so severe that I could not move part of the time. I consulted the very best medical skill available, but could get no relief until Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended to me. It has been a God-send to me." Sold by Rowland Bros.

ST. GAUDENS IS DEAD

Foremost Sculptor of the United States Succumbs to a General Breakdown of the System.

Cornish, N. H., Aug. 5.—Augustus St. Gudens, LL. D., L. H. D., the sculptor, died at his home in Cornish, after a long illness. Death was due to a general breakdown of the system caused in part by a form of nervous dyspepsia with which he had long been troubled, and although he was temporarily relieved he continued in poor health. During the past month his decline had been rapid. Until the first part of July he visited his studio nearly every day, but as he grew weaker he had to be assisted to his work. Since the middle of July he was obliged to remain in bed. He was born at Dublin, Ireland, March 1, 1848.

His principal works are the Lincoln statue, at Chicago, the Farragut Sherman and Cooper figures at New York, that of Garfield at Philadelphia, the "Puritan" at Springfield, Mass.; the Shaw memorial at Boston; the figure of "Grief" in Rock Creew cemetery at Washington, the Logan statue at Chicago, and the Diana on the Madison Square Garden tower, New York. His last work was probably the design on the new gold coins for the United States.

WELL DONE! ZIMMERMAN

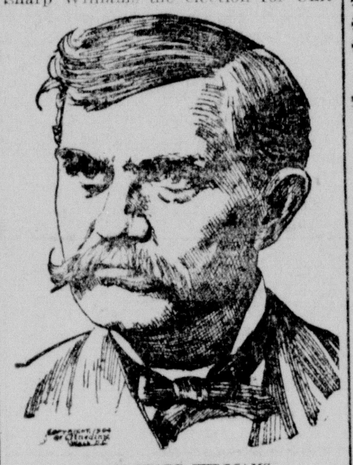

Pittsburg Department Store Driver Does Society a Service and Makes a "Good" Thug.

Pittsburg, Aug. 5.—J. H. Zimmerman, a driver employed by a large department store, was attacked about 9 p. m. in the downtown district by three highwaymen, and after receiving a severe beating, shot and killed Edward Shields, one of his assailants.

Zimmerman fired the shot as he lay on the ground with the three robbers going through his clothes. The other two, who are unknown, ran when the shooting began. Zimmerman pursued them until he was arrested. About an hour after being taken to central station Zimmerman revived sufficiently to explain what had happened. Immediately the entire police and detectives were put on the case. Later John McCarthy, of Chicago, was arrested as a suspicious character. The attempted robbery was one of the boldest known here for some time.

The Scrap Book

Agreed With Him.

A professor of botany was recently lecturing in an Iowa city. In his discourse he attempted to show the great value of flowers and their near relationship to human beings. He concluded his remarks by saying, "The Lord that made me made a daisy." Whereupon some one in the audience called out, "You bet he did!"

It was several minutes before the professor discovered why every one laughed.

LOVE SCORNS DEGREES.

Love scorns degrees. The low he lifteth high.
The high he draweth down to that fair plane
Whereon in his divine equality
Two loving hearts may meet, nor meet in vain.
'Gainst such sweet levelling custom cries amain,
But o'er its harshest utterance one bland sigh,
Breathed passionwise, doth mount victorious still.
For Love, earth's lord, must have his lordly will.

—Paul H. Hayne.

He Saw Double.

A Scotch minister and his servant, going home from a wedding, began to consider the state into which their potations at the wedding feast had left them. "Sandy," said the minister, "just stop a minute here till I go ahead. Maybe I don't walk very steady and the good wife might remark something not just right."

He walked ahead of the servant for a short distance and then asked: "How is it? Am I walking straight?"

"Oh, aye," answered Sandy thickly, "ye're a' recht; but who's that who's with you?"—Argonaut.

Long Distance Jane.

An old farmer was skeptical as to whether people who were miles apart could really talk to each other over a telephone wire.

One day his wife went to make a visit to a distant friend who had a telephone in her house. During the afternoon the farmer visited a near neighbor who also boasted a house telephone and who persuaded the farmer to call up his wife as a little surprise.

Following instructions he put the receiver to his ear and, after the usual preliminaries, he shouted:

"Hello, Jane."

Just then a flash of lightning caused by the heat of the summer day struck the wire, and he fell sprawling to the floor. The neighbor was chagrined that the old man should meet with such an accident on his first trial of a telephone and assured him that such a thing would not happen except in case of storms. But the farmer was convinced of the possibilities of communication, however, and would not try again. He rose to his feet and, shaking his head knowingly, said:

"It's wonderful; that was Jane, all right."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Fixed All Right.

An automobilist who was touring through the country saw, walking ahead of him, a man followed by a dog. As the machine drew near them the dog started suddenly to cross the road and was killed by the car. The motorist stopped his machine and approached the man. "I'm very sorry, my man, that this has happened," he said. "Will $5 fix it?"

"Oh, yes," said the man; "$5 will fix it, I guess."

Pocketing the money as the car disappeared in the distance, he looked down at the dead animal.

"I wonder whose dog it was," he said.

Juvenile Ambition.

Mrs. M. G. Black of Gardiner, Ore., who received one of the last rewards of the Carnegie hero fund for her bravery in saving three young girls from drowning, was talking about bravery the other day.

"Do I think that bravery, heroism, can be cultivated? Yes," she said, "in a sense I do. Heroism is unselfishness carried to its highest point, and children can be trained to be unselfish. There is only one way to teach them that, though, and that is the way of kindness. Beat and bully children, and they won't grow up unselfish, but the opposite."

She smiled.

"Once, at an Easter party, I had a long conversation with a little boy. As I helped him decorate a pink egg I asked, 'What are you going to do when you grow up?'

"Looking up from the egg, with a frown, he answered:

"'Whip papa.'"

Shocked Into Generosity.

A small church was in need of repairs, and a meeting was being held to raise funds for that purpose.

The minister having said $500 would be required, a wealthy (and equally stingy) member of the congregation rose and said he would give a dollar. Just as he sat down a lump of plaster fell from the ceiling and hit him upon the head, whereupon he rose hastily and called out that he had made a mistake—he would give $50. An enthusiast present, forgetful of everything, called out fervently, "O Lord, hit him again!"

Lincoln's Soft Answer.

One hot summer day when I was in New York I was invited to a "cold tea" at the Americus clubhouse in Greenwich, Conn. At the clubhouse was a gracious company, and among the guests was Governor John T. Hoffman of New York.

One of the guests said to the governor that he had noticed President Lincoln sent an open letter to Governor Buckingham of Connecticut, thanking that state for having raised its quota of troops, and he asked Hoffman if he had ever received such a letter for New York.

The governor replied that he had not, but had read the letter to the governor of Connecticut, and it had disturbed him not a little. But soon after its publication he had had an interview with Mr. Lincoln at the executive mansion, and had said: "Mr. President, I notice that you took pains to send Governor Buckingham a letter thanking Connecticut for having raised its quota of troops. But you forgot to thank the great Empire State for having raised its quota."

"Aha!" said Mr. Lincoln. "When Mrs. Lincoln passes me a cup of tea I never think of thanking her for it; I expect it."—Boston Herald.

Had Sufficient Company.

A little boy was heard swearing by his mother. She reproved him very gently, telling him that God was with him and by him at all times and knew his very thoughts. Soon after he started downtown on an errand, and a dog followed him. Turning quickly around, the boy told the dog to go back; it was bad enough to have God following him everywhere, let alone a dog.

In Confederate Money.

One day during a temporary cessation of hostilities between the opposing forces a tall, strapping Yankee rode into the Confederate camp on a sorry looking horse to effect a trade for some tobacco. "Hello, Yank!" hailed one of a number of Confederate soldiers lolling about on the grass in front of a tent. "That's a right smart horse you all got there." "Think so?" "Yes; what'll you take for him?" "Oh, I don't know." "Well, I'll give you $7,000 for him," bantered the Confederate. "You go to blazes!" indignantly returned the other. "I've just paid $10,000 to have him curried."—Lippincott's.

O'Rorke, Hodcarrier.

O'Rorke had been a hodcarrier in Rochester when he was appointed to West Point.

There is something that sets the heart beating warmly in the fact that when his friends of toil learned that he stood at the head of his class they chipped in some of their hard earnings and bought him a costly, richly engraved gold watch as a token that they were proud of him. He drilled me under the blooming horse chestnuts on the east side of the academic hall, and I well remember his looking at that same watch while giving me a little rest.

The fall before the Gettysburg campaign he became colonel of the One Hundred and Fortieth New York, and some time in the winter of 1862-63 I received his wedding cards, and the bride's name was Bridget. Many a time since I have thought that this was his boyhood love to whom he had remained steadfast while honors were falling about him. However that may be, he was killed while standing on a large bowlder, his regiment immediately before him and fighting almost at the very muzzles of its guns on Round Top.

Meanwhile fame's trumpet has been pealing, but not over his grave. Ah, how fickle she is! Everybody knows of his classmate, Cushing; not one in a thousand of dear old Pat! Yet I am sure that the spirits of Bayard and Sidney reached out their hands from heaven to grasp the gallant boy and welcome him to the company of gentlemen of all ages.—Atlantic.

He Didn't Inject It.

An elderly resident of Lynn, Mass., was talking about Mrs. Eddy, the head of the Christian Science church.

"When she lived here in Lynn," said the old man, "she conducted a temperance campaign for a time. She did a lot of good, though now and then she met with a rebuff. The story goes that a tramp once asked her for help.

"'I'll help you, my friend,' said Mrs. Eddy, 'but first you must answer me one question. Do you or do you not drink beer?'

"'Why, lady,' he said, 'ye cert'n'y don't think I squirt it into me arm wid a syringe!'"

Bismarck and the Ambassador.

Lord Russell, the English ambassador at the German court, called one day on Prince Bismarck at the palace of the latter, in Berlin. During the conversation Lord Russell remarked that a man in the chancellor's position must be bothered with a great many troublesome callers.

"God knows how true that is," sighed the prince.

"But you certainly have some remedy or other to get rid of such people quickly?"

"Oh, certainly," laughed Bismarck. "One of my best is that my good wife comes in to call me away on some pretext or other. Of course the caller can't remain after that."

These words were hardly uttered, when the princess entered and said in the most harmless way: "Otto, it is time to take your medicine. Do not forget it."

Lord Russell broke into a ringing laugh and took his leave at once.

Would Not Compromise.

A German traveler who tried to pass a meal ticket on the train was told by the conductor that he would have to pay the regular fare of 35 cents. The German argued and refused to pay more than 25 cents, whereupon the conductor stopped the train and put him off.

In a twinkling the traveler ran ahead of the engine and started to walk on the track. The engineer blew his whistle violently, but the irate German turned, shook his fist and called out: "You can vissle all you vant to; I von't come pack."

"We never repent of eating too little," was one of the ten rules of life of Thomas Jefferson, president of the United States, and the rule applies to every one without exception during this hot weather, because it is hard for food, even in small quantities, to be digested when the blood is at high temperature. At this season we should eat sparingly and properly. We should also help the stomach as much as possible by the use of a little Kodol For Indigestion and Dyspepsia, which will rest the stomach by digesting the food itself. Sold by Rowland Bros.

Those who have stomach trouble, no matter how slight, should give every possible help to the digestive organs, so that the food may be digested with the least effort. This may be done by taking something that contains natural digestive properties—something like Kodol For Indigestion and Dyspepsia. Kodol is a preparation of vegetable acids and contains the very same juices found in a healthy stomach. It digests what you eat. Sold by Rowland Bros.

GOTHAM CRIME WAVE

No Let-Up in Assaults on Women and Children--Mob Turns Itself Loose.

INNOCENT MEN ARE ATTACKED

One Nearly Killed Who Had Been Chasing the Real Culprit.

Case Only That of a Boy Slapping a Girl, Too—Two More Cases of Real Deviltry Recorded.

New York, Aug. 5.—Another murderous assault has been added to the police record of recent crimes against defenceless women and girls. The victim was Mrs. Ellen Bulger, a woman of middle age who was raped in her apartments in the Bronx, cruelly beaten, and left in a helpless state. The woman was removed to the hospital, where it was found that her skull had been apparently fractured, her face and hands lacerated, and her body otherwise bruised. There was evidence that the woman had made a courageous fight. From what the police were able to immediately learn from her, she was surprised by a smooth-faced stranger perhaps 40 years of age. He was coatless and wore an outing shirt and dark trousers. He escaped.

Mob Begins to Get Busy.

Just before Mrs. Bulger was assaulted, George Kestner, a Russian charged with attempted rape of an 8-year-old girl, was set upon by a crowd of men and all but killed. The clothes were torn from his body and he was taken to a station house wrapped in a blanket. Another mob set upon Lyle Saloda, an Indian palmist, who was similarly accused, and only the timely intervention of police reserves saved him from summary punishment.

Saved by a Policeman.

Jennie Smith, aged 22 years, was knocked down by one of two men who she alleged attempted to rape her in Staten Island. Her screams attracted a policeman, who captured one of the men. He said that he was John Hughes, of Brooklyn. During the day and early night a dozen cases of attempted rape of women were reported to the police. Most of them were not very serious affairs, and in several instances it is believed that no harm was intended by the alleged assailant.

Blind Fury of the Rioters.

Louis Conconela, 21 years old, was the victim of the blind fury of rioters, and will probably die of his injuries. He was innocent of wrong-doing but fell before a crowd determined to have revenge on some one. A man and wife quarrelled in 117th street and their youthful daughter went out to the sidewalk and wept. A passing boy slapped her and ran away. The girl's cries and the running boy aroused the neighbors who chased the lad. The boy escaped and Conconela, who had outfooted the other pursuers, was mistaken by the mob for the girl's assailant.

BOY KILLED BY ELECTRICITY

Shocked and Burned to Death in a Network of Wires Where He Went on a "Dare."

New York, Aug. 5.—Suspended in a network of electric wires seventy feet in the air, alongside the trestle of the Public Service Corporation trolley line in Hoboken, a 12-year-old boy was shocked and burned to death, as several hundred persons looked on helplessly.

Two chums of the boy dared him to climb the trestle and rob a bird's nest under the iron girders. When he had reached the top of the trestle he waved his hand, which came in contact with a live wire and its owner suddenly pitched forward. Ten feet down the boy's body struck the network of wires. He was dead when aid arrived.

Charged With Forging Tickets.

Oskaloosa, Iowa, Aug. 5.—Harry Charles, 23 years old, a resident of this city, has been arrested on a charge of altering or forging round trip tickets. The forgeries have continued seven months. A liquid eraser was used in making alterations. Tickets sold for small distances were made to cover hundreds of miles. The Burlington system was the principal sufferer. Complaints were also entered by the Chicago & Alton.

Two Regulators Killed.

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 5.—By being killed in the senate the Sunday freight train bill and the measure to provide for receivers of corporations whose franchises might be revoked, as in the case of the Southern railway, two administration measures are lost entirely. The plan to stop Sunday freight trains contemplated giving power to the railroad commission to install the act when it was thought advisable.

World's Champion Sculler.

Sydney, N. S. W., Aug. 5.—Webb, the New Zeland sculler, defeated Charles Towns, of Australia, in a rowing race on the Paramatta river championship course, thereby winning the world's sculling championship.

Prohibition Fails in Alabama.

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 5.—In the house Henley made an effort to get up his prohibition bill, but failed, as there are only two more days of the session, it cannot possibly pass.
